READY, SET, RECESS : TEAMWORK DISGUISED AS PLAY

How do you build Teamwork without making it feel like homework?

The Ready, Set, RECESS program rings the recess bell and takes us back to 3rd grade, when our brains were open to possibilities.

Strategic improv and communication games will help participants re-discover lessons learned long ago.

- Thinking beyond the obvious possibilities, leading to more creative problem-solving.
- Enhanced connection producing greater workplace cohesion, productivity, and retention.
- Avoiding stagnation and propelling teams and organizations to accomplishment.

These lessons, when applied today, inspire your team to collaborate and communicate with an open mind.

PERMISSION TO PLAY: THE LEADERSHIP JUGGLE

Juggling Balls, rings, Chinese Yo Yo, Flower Sticks, Peacock Feathers, Stilts and more.

More than a Juggling Workshop, this wildly participatory program engages your group and solidifies the “HOW CAN I? Methodology” in a fun environment that translates directly to daily challenges for individuals and teams. The lessons learned will be far greater than keeping three objects in the air or balancing on a board.

- Reduced stress .
- Healthier communication with co-workers produces a more positive work environment.
- Improved empathy in customer service will lead to loyal clients who are raving fans.
- And, so much more!

Give your people (and yourself)
Permission to PLAY!

G-RATED LEADERSHIP: HOW TO LEAD WITH GRIT, GRACE, AND GRATITUDE

Leading with Grit, Grace, and Gratitude creates an atmosphere where your people and your teams feel re-energized, validated, and appreciated.

Leadership in a team dynamic demands different styles for different people. In the constantly evolving dynamics of today’s employment environments, the next steps are rarely crystal clear. However, three elements of leadership are universally effective: Grit, Grace, and Gratitude.

TEAMS WHO ARE:

- RE-ENERGIZED
avoid burnout, turnover, and the expensive process of replacing and re-hiring.
- VALIDATED
enjoy a positive work environment that retains your stars and gets results quicker.
- APPRECIATED
show up in ways you never imagined they could or would.

AV NEEDS

Music playback capability. Joe will bring a tablet to play music from, and a portable drive with audio files if necessary.

Projector with audio – Joe’s presentation has embedded video that requires sound.

Joe will bring his presentation the day of the event on his PC laptop and on a separate flash drive.

Microphone – Hands free headset or Lapel mic preferred, but any wireless mic will do.
